

RESTORATION MAN & EVO

www.evolifts.co.uk

This Thursday at 9pm, Channel 4s popular Restoration Man, George Clarke returns to North Yorkshire to catch up with our clients Mark and Pat Rand, and their amazing restoration of the railway water tower at Settle Station.

Bringing the historic building into the 21st century, the Evo 100 Home Lift was a key part of the couple's stunning conversion of the famous tower, future-proofing the property by providing fast, quiet travel up and down the beautiful, architectural treasure.

Built in 1876, the original water tower served the steam trains that travelled along the 72 mile world famous Settle to Carlisle line. On this Thursday's Restoration Man, George Clarke will chart the building's journey and how it has now become a completely unique home to Mark and Pat. We think you'll agree they've done a fantastic job!

With the stunning roof top vistas one of their favourite parts of the restoration, thanks to the Evo 100 Home Lift, they'll always be able to enjoy the impressive 360 degree views without enduring flights of stairs to get there!

If, like us, you can't wait for the show to start, visit our website to read more about the project. And, if you miss the show, don't forget you can watch it online on 4OD afterwards!
