

CASE STUDY

Davy's Wine Bar

Woolgate

www.evoulifts.co.uk

Client:

Davy's have 30 regional city and central London wine bars and are known for offering exclusive wines and delicious food in sumptuous surroundings.

Problem:

The stunning Davy's at Woolgate Bar & Brasserie has recently opened under the expert guidance of David Crocombe, an architect from Pennington Robson. During the build and fit-out, David Crocombe advised the client that, in order to comply with Part M Building Regulations, disabled access must be provided even though this would undoubtedly affect the aesthetics of a rather beautiful architectural staircase.

Known for their flexibility and value for money, EVO Lifts were recommended to quote for the installation as a result of previous work with a major retail group.

Solution:

EVO Lifts supplied and installed an EVO 500 Internal Platform Lift which offers a flexible travel distance of up to 12 metres. The lift is self-contained, requiring no special lift-shaft, facilitating installation adjacent to the stunning staircase. Working with the architects, EVO Lifts developed the specification to achieve a more aesthetically pleasing finish which was extremely important to the client. Engineered to precision standards, the EVO 500 is extremely reliable and provides fast yet quiet travel.

"EVO Platform Lifts were particularly helpful when it came to liaising with the designers to incorporate the lift in to the surroundings."

"The whole process was very smooth. The lift is easy to operate and I'm pleased to see that our customers are happy to use it."

Bruce Edwards, Managing Director of Davy's Wine Bar, said: '

The whole process was very smooth. The lift is easy to operate and I'm pleased to see that our customers are happy to use it."

David Crocombe, architect and project manager, comments:

"EVO Platform Lifts were particularly helpful when it came to liaising with the designers to incorporate the lift in to the surroundings."

Managing Director Steve Coak personally visited the site and was proactive and informative, suggesting solutions to our problems so that we were in no danger of invalidating our warranty or of compromising the safety of the lift with the modifications we were requesting. The lift was delivered on time as promised so there was no disruption to our tight opening schedule. As a matter of course, I always go out to tender but would definitely involve EVO Platform Lifts again."

t 0845 270 7584

e. sales@evoulifts.co.uk

www.evoulifts.co.uk

